SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

MISS CARMAN says "that as there is always an actual luxury in going barefoot, so there is always an actual luxury in being poor."

Perhaps if the woman of fashion, hery and everywhere, could adopt Miss Carman's philosophy, one of the great social problems would be solved. The luxury of poverty is found in its freedom and its independence of obligations. The poor woman does not have "to march in the procession," and consequently is not always anxious about presenting an appearance and feeling herself on parade.

In order that a woman may achieve worldly success she must, even if she is rich, lead a strenuous, anxious life, ever seeking to dominate others by her personality and so bend them to her will.

And is the game worth the candle? This life is so short. Is it not better to live it free and untrammelled? To be able to go out into the sunshine and breathe the fresh air of the open air, bathing with the difficulties and burdens that wealth must necessarily impose upon all women who are its possessors.

There are no women who understand how to be better than in Southern women, none who are able better to prove that the refinements and the real happiness of society are something altogether separate and apart from the material matter of dollars and cents. Poverty means to a woman more than discouragement and self-sacrifice. It means freedom from the strife of competition. It means leisure for mental growth and self-development. So that after a while the woman knows the real source and inspiration of happiness is within herself, and that it cannot depend upon anything so comparatively trivial as a condition of life. She realizes that "good fortune is not an endowment of circumstance merely; it is rather a tenet of the mind, a mood of the spirit, and a physical attribute."

The Monday German. The third dance of the Monday German will be given to-night in Mason Temple, with Colonel Jo Lane Stern leading.

The brilliant success of two preceding dances renders the promise of tonight's entertainment more than usually attractive. There will be a number of visitors no doubt, as the city is unusually full at this time, and there has never been a year when the attendance of the Monday German dances appeared more noticeable.

The opening of a card-room and the added attraction of bridge has rendered the always popular series of Germans given at the Monday Club more and more largely attended than ever.

Receptions and Dances. The country clubs of Richmond were centres of gay life Saturday afternoon and evening.

At Lakeside Club a reception and dance drew largely upon the members of the young set. The guests included Miss Julia Joyner, Miss Caroline Armstrong, Miss Lillian Binford and Miss Brent Witt. The clippers were Mrs. Levin Joyner, Mrs. Abram Warwick, Mrs. Preston Nolan and Mrs. R. Latimer Gordon.

The Chesapeake and Annapolis hop at Hermitage was well attended, as usual, and proved a decidedly gay and enjoyable affair.

Quarles-Taylor. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar D. Taylor announce the approaching marriage of their niece, Ida Cornelia Taylor, to Judge Julian Minor Quarles, of Staunton.

The ceremony will be performed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, No. 1632 Monument Avenue, on Wednesday, January 22d, at 5 P. M. and will be witnessed only by relatives and intimates.

Due to the prominence of the contracting parties, the announcement is one of more than usual interest. Judge and Mrs. Quarles will make their home in Staunton when they return from their wedding tour.

The wedding on Saturday afternoon, at 1 o'clock, of Miss Bayona Taylor, daughter of Colonel George W. Taylor, of Norfolk, to Mr. Philip Maxwell Prescott, Jr., is spoken of as one of the most beautiful of the midwinter season.

It was celebrated in Christ Episcopal Church, Norfolk, by the Rev. J. Prescott of Washington, D. C., and Bishop A. M. Randolph, of Virginia, officiating.

The bride was given away by her father. She was exquisitely gowned in an imported creation of white tulle, with a long, flowing veil, and hung from a coronet of orange blossoms and her flowers were white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The maids of honor, Misses Marguerite Taylor and Louise Jones, were handsomely attired, the one in white and the other in blue. The bridesmaids wore coronets of orange blossoms and their flowers were white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mr. Sherburne Prescott, of Washington, D. C., was best man, and the groom's other attendants, Messrs. W. L. Alexander and F. H. Smith, of New York; Thomas N. Page, William H. White, Jr., and W. Hunter Bell, of Norfolk.

An elegant breakfast in the home of Colonel George W. Taylor was given after the ceremony. The table was decorated in palms, ferns and American Beauties, the roses forming the centrepiece of the table in the dining-room that was further ornamented with red-velvet cushions and flowers.

Among those who went from Richmond to attend the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Vaughan, Miss Lina Shields and Lieutenant Philip H. Bagby, U. S. A.

At the wedding. Mrs. Edward McCormick Greene, of Ben Venue, Va., and Miss Picklin, of Washington, D. C., attended the Gordon-Barnett wedding in Baltimore Saturday. They were also guests at the luncheon following the marriage, given in the George Burnett's residence, No. 909 North Charles Street, Baltimore.

Clapp-Gravely. Invitations have been received in Richmond from Mr. and Mrs. Peyton Clapp, of New York, for the marriage of their daughter, Mary Verser, to Mr. Ernest Clapp, the marriage to take place Thursday afternoon, January 23d, at 4 o'clock, in the Church of the Epiphany, at Danville, Va.

Miss Gravely's numerous Richmond friends will be much interested in her wedding. As the guest of several Richmond girls, Miss Gravely has made a large number of acquaintances here, where she is most pleasantly remembered.

Kate Wheelock Club. The Kate Wheelock Club met last Thursday with Mrs. Larkin Glassbrook. Highest score 100 and south was made. Mrs. J. Bland Taylor, Mrs. C. I. Todd, east and west, by Mrs. R. H. Nelson and Mrs. Powhatan Brecken. The club will meet next week with Mrs. D. T. Williams, at No. 210 East Franklin.

Board Meeting. The board of Sheltering Arms Hospital will meet at noon to-day, when

Quentin Roosevelt's Sweetheart

GRACE COLVIN.

Young Quentin has won the sentimental regard of Washington by his open admiration for a letter carrier's daughter who attends the same school. He sent her a Christmas present, Little Miss Colvin doesn't see that her afternoon school is anything but the ordinary. They attend the Force School, and she likes him about as well as any of five or six other lads in the school. "Quentin is a boy with a very nice disposition," she said, "and every body in the school likes him. I am glad when he comes here to play, but no more glad than when others of my schoolmates call."

officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

Mr. C. W. Rogers, of Charlottesville, Va., is spending a few days in Richmond.

Mrs. Charles Gwathmey, of Gwathmey's, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Addison Holladay, in Richmond.

A party made up of Misses Mary Goodwin, Lelia Lacy, Mary and Frances Berkeley; Messrs. G. Edmund Massie, Conrad Harrison Gordon and Cadet George Iverson Berkeley, recently spent a delightful evening with Miss Susie Gary at Gwathmey's.

Miss Miriam Coghill, who has been visiting her parents, at Bowling Green, Va., has resumed class work at Woman's College.

MURDERED FOR 90 CENTS. Shot at Man and Killed Wife, Who Was Striking Near NATCHES, MISS., January 12.—A young man, who gave his name as Hare, has surrendered to Vidalia law officers, and admitted the shooting of his wife.

Mrs. H. Harris, wife of a levee contractor, who was shot and killed while walking with her husband near Natchez last Thursday. So far as can be ascertained, the shooting resulted from a dispute between Harris and Hare over 90 cents, which the latter claimed was due him for work.

As the couple were working, Hare here he opened fire on Harris, but the
